

COAL GRAFT CHARGED BY VARDAMANMISSISSIPPI SENATOR SAYS THAT TRANSPORTATION COMPAN-IES' CONTROL EASTERN

OUTPUT MONOPOLIZED

Recent Shortage Due To Price And Production Rate of Eight Corporations; Investigator Claims(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Washington, March 3.—Senator Vardaman of Mississippi, chairman of the senate committee on mineral resources, today inserted in the congressional record a statement in which he charged that the coal industry is controlled by eight transportation companies which control the rate of production.The testimony before the committee, he asserted, had disclosed that "there is no commodity in common use that is so absolutely monopolized as the anthracite coal production." Shortage of anthracite during the war and the existing high prices for the commodity, he said, were due almost entirely to this monopolistic control.Names Eight Corporations Transportation controlling production in the Pennsylvania anthracite field, the only source of marketable anthracite in North America—were named by Senator Vardaman as follows:The Reading (the holding company of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, the Jersey Central, which in turn owns all the stock of the Lehigh Valley, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, the Delaware and Hudson, the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company (which owns and controls the Lehigh and New England); the Erie and New York, Ontario and Western."Notwithstanding the statement of the Pennsylvania anthracite company from engaging in mining, these transportation companies are in this business."Federal Action Expressing the hope that congress might see the necessity of legislation to protect the people from what he described as "the great evil of the coal industry," the senator recommended that "if the constitution of Pennsylvania which forbids the transportation companies to mine coal be enforced, the federal government should compel the divestment of transportation companies from mining operations."The statement that price of coal be fixed by the government.While payment of excessive royalties —said to amount in the case of the Locust mountain coal mine to the Gibbs mine to $1.09 a ton in the 1918 constituted the first cause of the high price of coal, the statement said that was "not the full story."Gives Causes of High Prices The other cause given were the monopolistic control of the coal industry by eight large companies to eliminate the competition of the independent operator. "The statement said the companies were able to do this in the following ways:High demurrage charges on cars at tidewater awaiting accumulation of a cargo lot.Inability of the independent operator to accumulate necessary supplies of the independent operator, the railroad producing companies having denied to the independent operators the use of their facilities, and.The "dog in the manger" attitude of the eight corporations, it was charged, continually reaches out and obtains all available unmined coal and prevents the independent operator from securing new contracts. Much of the statement said is related in an undeveloped state by the corporations. The statement also said that the independent operator could have been obtained to relieve the shortage had the federal administration companies to develop coal banks or turn over this accumulation of small sized coal to many independent concerns willing to reclaim it.WOODS HEADS NATION'S appointment today of Arthur Woods, former police commissioner of New York City, as a special assistant to Secretary Baker, the war department embarked upon a nation-wide campaign to obtain employment for discharged soldiers.First Break in Seattle's Shipyards Strike at Hand(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Seattle, March 3.—The first break in Seattle's shipyard strike came today when 250 metal workers and 200 apprentices who have been on strike, returned to work in shops that are working on shipyard contracts. "The men went back to work for the same pay they received before they joined the strike."Investigation to Continue Washington, March 3.—Continuance of the investigation of lawless propaganda during the recess of congress, with a report at the next session was authorized today by the senate.

Here's Confidence in Janesville's Future

GENERAL MOTORS CORPORATION DETROIT, MICHIGAN
February 26, 1919

Mr. J. P. Cullen, President, Janesville Chamber of Commerce, Janesville, Wisconsin.

Dear Sir:

Enclosed find check for $100,000, paying the General Motors Corporation, the contributors of the Janesville Improvement Association, which can be issued and forwarded at your convenience.

In this connection I am pleased to see that in my entire experience I have never seen in a city of modest size, a better spirit or a more commendable accomplishment. I predict for Janesville a splendid future.

Very truly yours,
W. C. Durant,
President

Enclosed find letter addressed to Mr. J. P. Cullen, President of the Janesville Chamber of Commerce, which you may deliver at your convenience.

Very truly yours,
W. C. Durant,
President

W. C. Durant, president of the General Motors Corporation, has sent a check for $100,000 as a subscription to the Janesville Housing corporation fund. The letter at the left was sent by Mr. Durant to John P. Cullen, president of the Janesville Chamber of Commerce.
The letter at the right was sent to J. A. Craig of the Janesville Machine company. The check for $100,000 was made payable to Frank J. Green, manager of the Chamber of Commerce and acting treasurer of the Janesville Housing corporation.

ENEMY DEBT SET
AT $120,000,000,000(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Paris, March 3.—The peace conference committee on reparations has estimated that $120,000,000,000 is the amount which the enemy countries ought to pay the allied and associated powers, says a Havas statement today.
The statement adds, however, that France, the statement adds, demands of $100,000,000,000, part in gold, part in materials and part in foreign securities, recommending that the remainder of $20,000,000,000 be paid in a period of 25 to 35 years.Efforts to Avert Marine Workers' Strike RenewedNew York, March 3.—Efforts to avert a strike by harbor workers that would tie up the New York water front were renewed here today by committees representing both the boat owners association and the marine workers' affiliation.The decision of V. Everit Macy, who was appointed umpire, that an 8-hour day might be enforced on boats where there were double crews, was not accepted by the marine workers' affiliation and all efforts of the war labor board failed.

Folks We All Know

The boy is asking his father where the light goes when it goes out, and his father is also thinking of going out, as this is puzzling question No.
327 for the evening and Dad doesn't feel nearly so smart as he did when he sat down to enjoy his copy of this Family Journal.Confidence in Janesville as the permanent home of great industries has been expressed in many instances in the last few months by men who have sought this city as the home for various enterprises.None, though, has taken such substantial form as that expressed by W.
C. Durant, for the Janesville Machine company and the Janesville Tractor company, when he sent to Frank J.
Green, manager of the Janesville Chamber of Commerce, a check for $100,000. This is to redeem the pledge made by Mr. Durant last fall when he pledged the housing corporation. Officials of the Janesville Machine company, the Janesville Tractor company and the General Motors Corporation, which is the financing company, have not interfered in any way nor attempted to make suggestions regarding the plans for constructing homes. Theyhave given advice when those who have put over the housing campaign have asked for it. J. A. Craig, chief local executive, has placed at the disposal of the city the best minds in the organization without charge.Mr. Durant and his associates, who have chosen Janesville as the home for one of the largest tractor plants in the world, according to their plans for the future, have not only backed their judgment by subscribing one-third of the amount needed to incorporate the housing corporation, but they have already invested one and one-third million dollars in the first unit and the land for other units, this in addition to their investment in the Janesville Machine company. When the first is in operation, work will immediately be started on a second and third and these will be ready for operation before snow flies next winter, according to present arrangements. In the next five years it is planned to build many more units, so that hundreds of complete tractors can be turned out each day.With the prospect of such an enterprise, backed by the millions of capital at the command of the Janesville company, Janesville people who have doubted the future of the city and questioned the success of the housing plan should feel relieved.In his letter to John P. Cullen, president of the Chamber of Commerce, enclosing the check, made payable to Frank J. Green, of the chamber, as treasurer of the funds, Mr. Durant says: "In my entire experience I have never seen in a city of modest size, a better spirit or a more commendable accomplishment. I predict for Janesville a splendid future."proper method of restoring all the labor conditions of the country to the normal basis as soon as possible and to effect such fresh allocations of labor and industry as the circumstances may make necessary. I think I can testify from what I have seen on the other side of the water that we are more fortunate than other nations in respect to these great problems.Our industries have been disturbed and disorganized—disorganized as compared with a peace basis, very seriously indeed, by the war, and it seems to me, therefore, that we are about to discuss with a good deal of confidence—with a good deal of confidence that if we have a common purpose we can realize that common purpose without serious difficulties.The thing that impressed me most, gentlemen, not only in the recent weeks when I have been in conference on the other side of the water, but for many months before I went across the water was this: We are at last learning that the business of government is to take counsel for the average man. We are at last learning that the whole matter of the prosperity of peoples runs down into the great body of the men and women who do the work of the world, and that the process of guidance is not completed by the water success of great enterprises.
It is completed only by the standard of the benefit that it confers on those who in the obscure ranks of life contribute to the success of those enterprises.Vital Sympathy Aroused
"The hearts of the men and women and children of the world are stirred now in a way that has never been known before. They are now confronted by the individual circumstances, but they are beginning to get a vision of what the general circumstances of the world are, and there is for the first time in history, an international sympathy which is quick and vital—a sympathy which does not display itself merely in the contact of governments but displays itself in the silent intercourse of sympathy between great bodies that constitute great nations, and the significance of a conference like this is what we are expressing in it, and will, I believe, express in the results of this conference, our consciousness that we are servants of this great silent mass of people who constitute the United States and that it is our privilege to find out how we can best assist in making their lives what they wish them to be, giving them the opportunities that they ought
PEOPLES WHO DO WORK OF WORLD, SAYS WILSON(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Washington, March 3.—Opening the White House conference of governors and mayors today, President Wilson promised that the federal government would consider itself the servant of the states, municipalities, and counties in solving readjustment problems and would perform its duty guided by suggestions of the conference.Touching on the peace conference, he said the conferences at Paris regard themselves only as servants of about seven hundred million people of the world and not as their masters.No Time For Deliberation The president said: "I wish that I could promise myself the pleasure and the profit of taking part in your deliberations. I find that nothing liberate is permitted me since my return. I have been trying under the guidance of my secretary, Mr.
Tamm, to do a month's work in a week and I am hoping that not all of it has been done badly, but I have been under a necessary pressure upon my time. I know that you will excuse me from taking a part in your conference, much as I should be profited by doing so."My pleasant duty is to bid you a hearty welcome and to express my gratification that so many executives of cities and of states have found the time and the inclination to come together on the very important matter we have to discuss.Is Servant of Governors
"The primary duty of caring for our people in the intimate matters that we want to discuss here, of course, falls on the states and on the municipalities and the function of the federal government is to do what it is trying to do in a conference of this sort—draw the executive heads of the country together so that they may profit by each other's suggestions and plans, and so that we may offer our services to coordinate their efforts in any way that they may deem it wise to coordinate."In other words, it is the privilege of the federal government in matters of this sort to be the servants of the executives of the states and municipalities and counties, and we shall perform that duty with the greatest pleasure if you will guide us with your suggestions.Meet to Discuss Labor
"I hope that the discussions of this conference will take as wide a scope as you think necessary. We are not met to discuss any single or narrow subject. We are met to discuss the subject. We are met to discuss the

TO BE HEARD TUESDAY(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Madison, March 3.—The senate committee on reconstruction and readjustment will hold a hearing on three so-called reconstruction bills by Chamberlain Roy F. Wilcox, Tuesday morning and later will hold a public hearing.One of the measures to be considered is an amended resolution as follows:
"The legislature may borrow money by issuing serial bonds for the construction or improvement of highways, but the debt thereby created shall never in the aggregate exceed $50,- 000,000."Senator Wilcox proposes to amend the constitution to permit the state to issue bonds for $50,000,000 for the permanent improvement of the highway system of the state.Another measure is a bill to provide for the appointment of arbitrators in cases of disputes between employers and employees. The third is his bill providing for a living wage for all employees. It reads in part:"If upon investigation, the industrial commission finds that there is reasonable cause to believe that the living wage for all employees is not being paid, it shall appoint an advisory wage board, to assist in its investigations and determinations. The living wage so determined upon shall be the living wage for all employees within the same class as established by the classification of the commission."SIX HELD FOR GRAFT IN NAVY DISCHARGES(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Chicago, March 3.—Six men were in custody today at the Great Lakes Naval Training station for alleged "graft," in connection with discharges of seamen which was brought to light by the death of Samuel B. Moss, known also as "Sammy Moscovitz," a discharged seaman who leaped from the eighth floor of an office building last Saturday, after being brought here from Detroit where he was arrested.The affair, said Lieut. Commander Chester S. Roberts, "practically begins and ends with Moss and the men under arrest. There was no system so far as I can learn."Daniels Orders Investigation Washington, March 3.—Secretary Daniels instructed the commandant of the Great Lakes Naval Training station today to investigate reports that a number of men there had been involved in irregularities similar to those recently disclosed in the New York district.Mission Fired On Warsaw, Sunday, March 3.—For the second time a train bearing members of the inter-allied mission to Poland has been fired on by the Ukrainians, according to a telegram received by Premier Paderewski.

WIRE TICKS

Upholds Anti-Narcotic Law Washington, March 3.—An interpretation of the so-called Harrison anti-narcotic act, the supreme court today declared constitutional the section prohibiting sales of drugs except on official order forms or physicians' prescriptions given in good faith.Senate Asks Food Investigation Washington, March 3.—A resolution by Senator Calder of New York, republican, directing the senate agricultural committee to investigate charges ances in addition to regular salaries are required to report these in income tax return. The internal revenue bureau announced today.Saloons Going Out Panama.—The new high license law of $150 a month which went into effect yesterday reduced the number of saloons in Panama from 680 to 100. A number of saloon keepers took out licenses for March only for the civil val and festival to be held this month.Gregory to Go to France Washington.—Thomas W. Gregory, retiring attorney general, will accompany President Wilson to France as general adviser.Hostilities Not Ended, It is believed, will be resumed between Poles and Ukrainians.Churches May Have League

New York.—Plans whereby Roman Catholic, Greek, Russian and Protestant churches may organize a league similar to that of the proposed society of nations, to cooperate in Christian work as brethren, will be laid before the pope by three protestant bishops.Hoover Heads Relief Work Washington.—Herbert Hoover, has been appointed by President Wilson as director general of the American relief administration created under the $10,000,000 European famine relief

E. Fairmont, mayor, died here today after a short illness. He was 64 years old.Strike Fails to Be Lowell, Mass., March 3.—The strike which agitators from Lawrence had announced for today in the cotton mills here failed to materialize at the opening hour.Hunt For Missing Tug Muskegon, Mich., March 3.—Coast guards here and at Grand Haven, Mich., are continuing today their search for trace of the Milwaukee fishing tug Antonio, missing since the storm on Lake Michigan Friday night.BREAK IN CHINESE CONFERENCE MAY MAKE WAY FOR NEW ARMYShanghai, Sunday, March 3.—Delegates of the northern Chinese government in session here with representatives of the southern government to adjust differences which have led to fighting during the recent past, have telegraphed their resignations to Peking, asking that they be replaced by "more competent" representatives who enjoy the complete confidence of the government.It is understood that the actual reasons for the delegates tendering their resignations lie in the fact that the Peking government has failed to enforce the armistice in the province of Shensi, and also that Chu Chih Chen, the chief northern negotiator, is dissatisfied with the southern government and desires to see it replaced by a new army officered by men trained in Japan will go forward.Senator Wilcox proposes to amend

SAYS LEAGUE IS DEADLY

Charge Proposed Constitution Would Set Up Oligarchy of Worst Sort Cannot Be Borne by Free Man.(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Washington, March 3.—The constitution of the league of nations as presented at the peace conference was pictured to the senate today by Senator Sherman of Illinois, republican, as a "Pandora's box full of evils," which would "empty upon the American people the aggregated calamities of the world."Senator Sherman sharply criticized President Wilson, asking "whether he is not a real threat to the public an autocratic power." He added that the authority was not to be found in the constitution of the United States nor was it implied from undefined war power and gave it as his opinion that the president had been acting either as "a usurper or a dictator."Assumes Dramatic Role "Shall we not ask with the dramatist," the senator said, "how in the name of all the Gods at once, upon what does this Caesar feed that he has grown so great?""He adroitly maneuvers himself into the spotlight as the fountain of peace perpetual and the guardian of mankind," Senator Sherman continued. "As he kept us out of the war, 1918, so he will keep us out of impending war by confining us to serve the leagues of 1920 and keep us at peace forever. We will accept him again.
With him as the drum major of civilization, eternal peace, beating the earth and brooding like a gentle spirit over a still and credulous world proclaims the millennium is here."Calls League Simple But Deadly "Like his neutrality device was the prelude to unprepared war, his peace league engages not in one war, but in all wars that come. It is simple but deadly. Apparently an open covenant of peace it is a masked charter of unceasing war; the voice of Mars but the hand of Woodrow."Senator Sherman said it would set up an oligarchy of the worst possible sort, adding:"If we cut the cables of constitutional government here we are caught in the irresistible tides that will sweep up into the maelstrom of the old world's blood currents. The fonda-mentals of the American republic will become our daily chart of action.
All we know is that a few men in secret council hold over us powers of life and death."Says Free Man Would Rebel "The creation of a nameless thing to sit in star chamber judgment and determine upon the destinies of mankind cannot be borne by free men.
It will embargo our commerce, close our exchanges, destroy credits, leave our merchandise rotting on piers, shut the national mail, our congress will declare war, levy taxes, appropriate money, raise and support armies and navies, and dispatch our men to any quarter of the globe to fight and die because an alien executive council has willed it.""Sincere men may have deceived themselves in their great hopes for a perfect world, but no delusion, however sincere, when someone this side from its duty to interpose its power against this universal utopia promised by the president. It is the fabled application of the sword which will turn to ashes on a trusting people's lips.
The senate never faced a greater task nor a nobler duty. It will not ratify an emotion nor translate an impossibility into a weapon of national suicide."Dreamer Rising Up, He Says Senator Sherman asserted that against the wisdom and experience of the senate, the president's constitutionality of the league constitution was there was now rising up "the dreamer and the bookman, the socialist, the more haberdashery in phrases which intoxicate the mind."The senator urged that the warning of the founders of the American government to let Europe settle her own quarrels be heeded now, adding that when the United States enters into alliance with a common danger it did not bind itself "in perpetual alliance to draw the sword whenever and so long as the majority of European governments voted in upon us."Dismissing from his prepared speech, Senator Sherman demanded that there be an open discussion of the league constitution and said:
"If the president is not a political and a governmental coward he will give it to us. If I cannot find expression of this privilege in my own party, I will go elsewhere for it."Senator Francis of Maryland, re-favoring the constitution of the league as it now stood "do not dare to let the American people discuss it and they will not remove the censorship and the people."And Mr. Francis added, "If you do not and the privilege of free speech in the republican or the democratic parties you will find it among the people of America."After Senator Sherman had delivered his address, Senator McCumber that the United States become a party to a league for preserving world peace.No Action in Fixing Hog

Mr. Aladdin and Other Ready-Cut Men Come to Town

They Invite Our Janesville Home Builders to Accept of a Most Flowery Appearing (Almost Something For Nothing) Proposition

BUT FIGURES WON'T LIE

The Fifield Lumber Company wants all prospective home builders to consider carefully what we have to say below.

Beside an illustration of a good looking 7-room bungalow which predominated their advertisement in a local paper a week ago, appeared the price of $945.00.

It would be natural for you in considering a new home to be very much attracted by the fact that the material for such a house could be purchased for less than a thousand dollars.

Our advice is to go to this advertised representative who is in our city and find out what will be and what will not be included in the purchase price of $945.00. You will find the design is The Aladdin Co., Stanhope, illustrated on page 41 of their small book of designs.

You Will Find the Price $945.00 for This House, "Stanhope," Includes:

- 1 No Basement or Foundation.
- 2 No Chimney.
- 3 No Cellar Windows or Frames.
- 4 No Electric Wiring or Fixtures.
- 5 No Plumbing Material.
- 6 No Heating.
- 7 No Gutter or Iron Work.
- 8 No Erection or Labor of Any Kind on the Job.

And you will find to this price of $945.00 must be added not less than $100.00 for freight from Bay City, Mich., to Janesville.

You will also find that the size of the bungalow which has no second floor, is only 22x34 feet over all.

You will find that estimates will be given to you that the house can be built for probably $2200.00.

The above is not based on supposition but on facts and we stand ready to prove our statements.

Friends: For $902.00 we will agree to furnish everything for this identical house that The Aladdin Co., agree to furnish, deliver to your property in loads as needed and be well satisfied with our margin of profit.

Kindly note that you will be making on our figures a saving of over $200.00, considering the service of delivery.

Don't be Fooled

by an idea that "Ready Cut" lumber will cut down your carpenter bill. We will furnish a contractor who will build your house of lumber from our yard just as cheap as you can have the ready cut lumber put in place.

We Wish to Stand Back of This Proposition:

We will duplicate any house, or barn, or garage, offered to you by any outside concern from any part of the United States; construct the building and turn the keys over to you ready to occupy and Guarantee a Saving of at Least 10% on the Material which would be furnished by these concerns.

As we say above, figures won't lie. Let us prove it to you.

We invite the public to visit and inspect our new interior woodwork factory. We want you to see how we are enlarging our facilities to take care of Janesville's growth.

Janesville and Vicinity a Bigger and Better Community.

NOW, ALL TOGETHER!

People who doubted those who have worked in preliminary steps for providing for the start of industrial plant, which all start operations in a few days, should now be won over to putting their shoulders to the wheel and settling right down to the task of keeping Janesville apace in the progress which will develop rapidly. The $100,000 promised has been paid by Mr. Durant.

Many have expressed the opinion that "there was nothing to the growth of the city," that it was just a scheme to get people stirred up and that all that could come out of it was increased taxes and added expenses.
The argument has been heard that the housing corporation was merely a money-making scheme, fostered by a few who expected to get rich. To that the knocker has been out with the hammer for several weeks. Little attention was paid to him for the majority of the people did not believe him and laughed at his weak arguments. The men back of the housing plan dug right into the work and put it over. They have no excuses to make; they do not have to answer to those who have said they were in the game for their own benefit. That is disposed of without comment.

But here is the situation before us:
We have the money to start a housing corporation which will assure homes for working men as fast as they can be built. The housing corporation will have credit enough to give it a permanent fund for building those who wish to build. Every man who comes to Janesville to work and who takes advantage of the housing corporation's offer to build him a home will be tied to the city as a permanent citizen. His interests will be not only as a worker who earns his money, but as a homeowner, who will pay taxes; who will spend his money here.

We need other things beside homes.
We need a high school and we are going to have one sufficiently large and modern to answer our purposes for the present, at least. We will need other improvements and it will be necessary for us to go into debt for some of them. But we can afford to go into debt, for every dollar which is spent in improving Janesville in the next few years will bring a fair return in the future. It is not necessary for those who will have the authority to spend this money for improvements to abuse the confidence of the people and foist a debt on them that will prove needless and burdensome. It will be necessary for our representatives to spend with care and care care.
But it is just as necessary that we do not stifle when the occasion arises which demands rapid and foresighted action.

Janesville has shaken off its lethargy and is ready to spring into a bustling city. In the next few months our people are going to see rapid changes.
Sometimes it may be necessary to rub our eyes in wonder at these changes.
Every day new people are coming here. In a few more weeks they will come in large numbers. Let's all get ready to welcome them by giving them the best of our glad-hand.
Someone at sometime said: "Throw away your hammer and buy a horn." We suggest that we substitute an orchestra for the horn and give these newcomers a symphonic welcome.

START AT BOTTOM.
The war has awakened the United States to the need of Americanizing some eight millions of aliens who cannot read the English language; effort has been made to suspend immigration for a period of years so that this nation will not be the dumping ground for hundreds of thousands of Europeans who seek our protection.
Such proposed legislation as teaching those who are here to use the English language and to shut off the influx of aliens would be a great help in the future.

While we are building for the future why not encourage Americanization from the time the children of the state enter the public schools? Assemblyman Axel Johnson's bill to abolish foreign language in the schools let loose a storm in the legislature last week which shows that those who have come to our land of freedom to escape tyranny in their native lands are still going to fight to retain what shreds of old world customs they can.

Most people agree that foreign languages in colleges and universities have a cultural value and should be encouraged to that extent, but to start the child in the grades at learning a foreign language is getting away from the first step in Americanization.

It is the duty of parents to see that the child has a firm foundation in the language of this country and then as he passes to the stage where he will not be susceptible to propaganda, such as was disseminated during the war, he will be strong enough to master foreign language if he so desires.
In order to make Americanization an success it is necessary to get away from the division of communities into nationality sections. In this state for instance, certain counties are designated as Norwegian, or Belgian, or German, or Polish. Every one of them should be strictly American.
The imaginary fences should be torn down and we should all belong first and last to one country—the United States.

Some of our legislators are playing to constituencies who are protesting against the removal of foreign languages from our schools. They certainly cannot conscientiously vote against a measure which will start the child right in the first principles of Americanization.

TAFTS STATEMENT.

Ex-President Taft has aroused the ire of those republicans who have taken issue with President Wilson on some of the points in the proposed constitution of the league of nations.
Jonathan Bourne, Jr., president of the Republican Public Association, has this to say:
"To the statement of ex-President Taft that among the men who are opposing the League of Nations are those who do not trust with the constitution over night, there is the obviously pertinent reply that his confidence is neither requested nor requisite. Under our system of government, the men in the senate, who are now the chief spokesmen against the suggested constitution for a league of nations, get their credentials in the form of a vote of the people. The people of their several states—people who know them best. Those constituents are willing to trust them not only over night but for a period of six years. Mr. Taft's ill-pertinent innuendo would be less impertinent if the records of the election of 1912 did not disclose the pronounced determination of the country not to trust him in the White House for another four years."

"Not only by his advocacy of surrender of national ideals, individuality and independence, but by his assumption of the autocratic right to dictate to members of congress, Mr.
Taft has linked himself in very close association with President Wilson.
The arrogance of his assumption of personal superiority of mind and patriotism is excelled only by the docil-ity with which he would surrender the dignity and power of the nation to the selfish interests and uncertain changes in the politics of Europe and Asia."

"Most of those who have discussed the project for a league of nations have done it upon a broad consideration of principles involved, conceding to all others rectitude of purpose and patriotic motives. Mr. Taft enjoys the distinction of being the second to question the right of others to a free expression and a fair hearing. He has been preceded in his attitude only by the president, who said the temer-ity to ask that a discussion be postponed until he had returned and submitted his own views."

"Since Mr. Taft has deemed it proper to discuss opponents of the league plan with the sweeping declaration that he would not trust them with the constitution over night, it should be sufficient to reply in kind."

"Those who made protest against the luxury tax on wearing apparel, got quick action when the house voted to repeal that part of the war revenue bill. Mother and Sis can have their new dresses and Dad will have a few extra dimes for those cigars he had been intending to forego the pleasure of smoking when another dent was threatened his bank roll."

President Wilson told democrats with whom he lunched last week that he yearned to get back to writing. He has enough material to keep him busy for a long time. Some take his remark as an indication that he will not
mark as an indication that he will not seek a third term. If he does, he will be busier than if he had followed out his idea of writing.

The announcement that Senator Gay, Louisiana, would vote for woman's suffrage sent a thrill of joy through the ranks of the party. The leaders predict a victory for the new compromise resolution proposed by Chairman Jones of the woman suffrage committee.

THE SILVER STRIPES.

When we've honored the heroes returning from France And we've mourned for the heroes who fell When we've done all we can for the home-coming man Who stood to the shot and the shell
Let us all keep in mind those who lingered behind—
The thousands who waited to go—The brave and the true, who did all They could do
Yet have only the silver to show.

They went from their homes at the summons for men.
They drilled in the heat of the sun, They fell into line with a pluck that was fine;
Each cheerfully shouldered a gun;
They were ready to die, for Old Glory on high They were eager to meet with the foe;
They were just like the rest of our bravest and best, Though they've only the silver to
show.

Their bodies stayed here, but their spirits were there;
And the boys who looked death in the face,
For the cause, had no fear—for they knew, waiting for all to fall, each place.
Oh, the ships came and went, till the battle was spent
And the tyrant went down with the blow;
But he still might have reigned but for those who remained
And have only the silver to show.

So here's to the soldiers who never saw France,
And here's to the boys who snafled; Let us give them their due; they were glorious, too,
And it isn't their fault that they stayed.
They were eager to share in the sacrifice there;
Let them share in the peace that we know.
For we know they were brave, by the service they gave
show.

CLUBS AND SOCIETIES

The Children's Story Hour was held at the library, Saturday morning. Thirty children attended. They listened with much interest to Miss Emily Mosser, as she told them the "Prince of the Desert," "The Brahmin," "The Tiger and the Jackal," and "Who Killed the Otter's Babies." The story hour will be continued through the month of March.

The M. N. club was entertained a few evenings ago, at the home of Miss Gladys Rutter, South Jackson street. The hostess served a supper at ten o'clock.

Mrs. F. H. Palmer, South Third street, gave one of the silver teas that are being given by the Federated church, this afternoon. A social hour was enjoyed and tea was served.

The Drama league will meet this evening at Jansville Center. They will read the reading of "Nocturne," by Frank Swinnerton. Miss Mabel Greenman will be the hostess for the evening. A light lunch will be served.

Divisions Nos. 5 and 6 of the Congregational church will meet, Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Frank Taylor, Clark street. Church work will be taken up and a tea served during the afternoon.

A meeting of the Philomathean club was held at the home of Mrs. Andrew Adams, Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Lillian Eddy read a paper prepared by a relative on the "Work of the Y. M. C. A. in the War." He was stationed at Camp Hancock, and gave an account of many personal experiences connected with his work at the cantonment. He described an Easter service held at the camp, and showed what a large part of the Y. M. C. A. has played in the life of men. Mrs. T. O. Howe read a story by Ellis Parker Butler entitled: "I Gather Too Many Goat Feathers." Mrs. Cappellet read a short story by Alice Hegan Rice, "Miss Minks Soldier." After the program the hostess served supper.

Miss Jennie Cleveland, 52 Court street, will entertain Division No. 4, Wednesday afternoon. She will also entertain at the silver tea.

Mrs. Fred Sutherland will entertain at a silver tea, Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. H. H. Bliss will entertain Division No. 7, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Adams will entertain Division No. 8, Tuesday afternoon.

Little Miss Winifred Cheney will whistle accompanied by her sister, Gertrude, at the Federated church, Friday evening.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Marjorie Mout, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Mout, of this city, to Peter Valentine Kuhn, which took place today in the city of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Kuhn, left for an eastern trip, after which they will reside in Jansville.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Mason, 403 South Academy street, entertained at a dining room last evening in honor of their daughter, Adelle, who was recently married to Wilfred R. Mayford. The evening was spent in music and games after which a three-course luncheon was served.

The bride received many gifts from the guests.

Mrs. E. D. Roberts, Court street, gave a small luncheon the last of the week. It was served at the Myers hotel, at one o'clock.

SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

Lieut. George Field and family came home today from Florida, where they have been stopping since his release from the service in a hospital in California.

Lieut. Ray Edler, who was in the aviation service in a southern camp, has been released from service and is expected home this week.

Ralph Gray, former manager of the Woolworth store in this city, has arrived at Chicago, and expects to soon be discharged from the service. He has been in training at a camp in San Diego, Calif., in the hospital corps.

First Lieut. George Sherman, son of Mrs. William Sherman of this city, has arrived at New York City, from France. He is expected to be discharged from the service in a few days.

He was gassed and confined to a hospital for some time. He received his training in this country at Camp Grant, Ill. He hopes to be sent to Camp Grant to be mustered out of the service.

Lieut. George Sherman will soon be in Jansville, according to word received today from his mother, Mrs. Wm. Sherman. Lieut. Sherman arrived in New York yesterday, after spending several months overseas.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wild and family, formerly of the Hotel Myers, left for Beloit today, where they have taken the Hotel Hilton. They have made

AMUSEMENTS

Millions of Followers.
It is estimated that "Common Clay," the Harvard prize play by Cleves Kincaid, in which Jane Cowl achieved one of her most notable successes, has been witnessed by more than five million persons. Under the direction of A. H. Woods, it ran for a full year as a Broadway attraction, playing to the capacity of the house. During the three years following it was interpreted by star companies throughout the United States and Canada and everywhere attracted large audiences. Now that A. H. Woods has produced a screen version of this American masterpiece, it is figured roughly that in all, about ten or twelve million persons will watch it on the silver screen. The estimate includes a large percentage of those who witnessed the stage presentation and naturally will be curious to see how more fully it may be done on the screen, and the millions of moving picture lovers who are alert for the coming of a really inspiring feature. "Common Clay" is one of these and care was taken to surround Miss Ward by a most capable cast of specially selected players. The star and her support are splendidly directed by George Fitzmaurice combined in making a perfect performance, rich in faithful character study, human feeling and human faith.

Phelps Resigns As Boys' Secretary of "Y"

A. S. PHELPS.

A. S. Phelps, superintendent of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. since August, announced his resignation this morning. He will accept a position as campaign manager with the Ward Systems company, Chicago. Secretary Beaumont stated this morning that his successor had not been chosen.

Mr. Phelps' first undertaking in his new capacity will be the management of a 10 weeks' campaign for a Baptist college at Little Rock, Ark. He will leave Jansville tomorrow night.

Mr. Phelps has gone beyond our expectations as boys' director. Secretary Beaumont said this morning: "The Y. M. C. A. board of directors compliments him for his good work."

When Mr. Phelps took charge of his department there were in existence the Ill. Y. club and the Triangle club, both high school organizations. At the present time, besides these organizations, there are an "O. C. boys' club" in charge of Robert Cunningham, and six-grade school clubs, under the supervision of A. E. Matheson.

The boys' department committee consisted of J. H. Jansen, Ill. Y. club director; C. J. Smith, who was to head the proposed new boys' club; Robert Cunningham, employed by the Y. M. C. A. as a boys' director; A. E. Matheson, grade school clubs; E. J. Peterson, Triangle; and J. E. Lane. All these men have assured Mr. Phelps that they will continue their work in his absence.

There are now over 300 members in the boys' department, over twice the number when Mr. Phelps took charge. The attendance in the rooms has greatly increased, but the motto "Be a Gentleman" has secured remarkable order among the boys, who use game tables and apparatus under the supervision of older boys.

Among the prominent events fostered by the department have been the benefit program at the Apollo theater in December, at which, aided by the "Sammy Sisters," $115 was raised for a victrola in the boys' room; the Father and Son banquet Feb. 12, at which the attendance was greater than at both former banquets combined; and the district school theatricals on Feb. 2, which 500 people attended.

"BUY AND SELL" GERM INVADERS EVANSVILLE
(By Special Correspondent)
Evansville, March 3.—The spring of 1919 shows a great move in real estate, both country and city property. More property is being bought and sold here and vicinity than has been known for several years. The "buy and sell" germ has certainly invaded the vicinity with a vengeance. It is being spread by the moving of farms into the city, and in order to find dwellings in which to live, have found it necessary to buy, for rental property, in the city. The "buy and sell" germ is at a premium. With March 1, the "mercy-go-round" of movers began from farms to city and from city to farm. It is quite the order of the day to see moving vans and trucks, moving through the streets.

Farm property has sold for top-notch prices, many farms selling this vicinity for $200 per acre. City property also has brought good prices.

ST. PATRICK CALLED UPON AS ORIGINAL SNAKE ERADICATOR

Madison, March 3.—A state wide dry jubilee banquet, followed by a mass meeting, Monday, March 17, both in the city auditorium, Milwaukee, is the plan of the Ratification Council of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon League jointly. Senator Wesley L. Jones, Washington, Ex-Governor, Frank B. Willis, Ohio, and Dr. Howard H. Russell, founder of the Anti-Saloon League of America will be the guests of honor.

The Wisconsin dries chose St. Patrick's day for their celebration on the ground that since he was the original snake eradicator he should be their patron saint and that his anniversary was the proper time to start the final round up of snakes whether in boots, bottles or bolsheviks.

The banquet which is issuing the invitations numbers nearly 100 and in addition to prominent industrial and labor leaders includes Lieut. Gov. E. F. Dittmar, speaker Riley S. Young of the assembly, and many other senators, assemblymen and state officers. L. M. Alexander, president of the Nekeos-Edwards Paper Manufacturing company, Port Edwards, is chairman of the committee, and J. T. Phillips, representative of the Northern Hemlock Lumber Manufacturers association is secretary.

FARMERS ASK MORE BOUNTY ON WOLVES

Presence of a pack of wolves in the town of Center and in the town of Jansville northwest of the city has caused many farmers to ask for a bounty on the beasts. For the head of a wolf killed, the present bounty of $10 from the state and $10 from the county for grown wolves is considered too small by them. A warrant hunting to kill the beasts. For the head of a wolf up to six months old the state pays $4 and the county the same.

During the past few months wolves have been infesting farms and have destroyed many sheep. Increased activity on the part of the animals has been noted in the past few weeks and several volunteer hunters have taken shots at them without success.

Norman B. Hild, 623 North Washington street, together with several farmers recently trailed a wolf long distance but failed to get close enough to kill him. Walter Little and other farmers in that vicinity have been troubled by the beasts of late.

"Y" SOLDIER WELFARE WORKER TO COME HERE

Norman P. St. John, new member of the Y. M. C. A. staff, who will have charge of welfare work among returned soldiers and sailors, will arrive in Jansville tonight to assume his position. He will render personal service to all discharged men, and will aid them in becoming adjusted to civilian life.

Mr. St. John was Y. M. C. A. activities in the First regiment at Great Lakes for six months. He then entered the service, was discharged recently, and went back to association work. He is highly recommended by Great Lakes officials.

EVANSVILLE TOBACCO MEN TO INCORPORATE

(By Special Correspondent)
Evansville, March 3.—The tobacco growers of Evansville and vicinity will form a corporation, selling shares in the association at $16, according to a decision reached at a meeting held in the City hall, Saturday afternoon. Another meeting has been called for Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the City hall, to complete the business of incorporating.

Eugene H. Bittmore, Madison, president of the Society of Equity, addressed the Saturday meeting, strongly emphasizing the need of organization among the farmers.

A WOMAN'S BUSINESS

NICOLL SCORES.
When Roy Nicoll said, "I'm going back to New York tonight," I'll call you're all right," Janet felt like a person who, making a fierce effort to unlock a door, finds it ending in a dead end. She felt a little ashamed of having had even the remotest and vaguest distrust of Nicoll. As she thought it over now, she could not believe just what she had or had not expected, if anything.

Janet only knew that in everything that day—their stormy motor trip to Philadelphia, the meeting of the Penitentiary Congress, the committee in which plans were discussed for sending "her" magazine first in the field, and Nicoll's delicacy in taking himself back to New York, leaving her comfortably hastened for the night—she had acted in ways to increase her admiration for him tenfold.

The one weight upon her mind seemed now removed. She had mislaid Roy Nicoll, she told herself, and after all, just good friends, she had made a kind of a business woman who recognized her a clever business woman, who would make a name for herself, and money for him—and money was his standard of success in life. She had nothing to fear. He evidently had seen the hopelessness of winning her from the husband she truly loved, and with honest sportsmanship had determined to give Janet her chance without making her pay any price save the relief of his spirits soaring. She sat down in her well-furnished room and wrote a gay letter to Walt.

"So very nice to Roy," she ended, "but he is not answering me. Do you think he is not answering me? When he and I were talking on the vulgar subject of terms today, fancy my feelings when he mentioned five times in my salary for the next night, and months under contract! I had been prepared to pull his offer down something like that figure from a business knowledge of what I feared of. What she did NOT realize was that her very last consciousness before she sunk to sleep was devoted to thoughts of Roy Nicoll's love and (To be continued.)

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am engaged to a young soldier. Before he went to war he asked me, "Will you marry me?" and I promised him. He did not buy me a ring, because he could not afford to do so at that time.

Now he has returned and he acts as if he had never known me. When we meet on the street he looks the other way. He also goes around with another girl and I have been with him together several times. I heard that he was writing to this girl while he was away, but I would not believe it.

I have written for an explanation, but he has not answered me. Do you think it would be a good plan to call upon his mother and ask her what has made him turn against me?

LONELY HEART.
Just imagine what kind of a husband that young man would have made, and then he thanked that you and he were separated before anything more serious developed.

He was not ungentlemanly to drop you without an explanation. Do not talk to his mother about the affair, however. Forget him and do nothing further to show that you care.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have had a quarrel with my best friend. One evening she had her boy friend and another boy and no one over for supper. It was her birthday. Her boy friend seemed to like me from the start. I really did nothing to attract him and I tried my best to keep him from paying more attention to me than he did.

The next day when we saw each other at school she seemed cool, but I didn't know why. Every day since she has acted as if I were a stranger. She told me that she had her opinion of a girl who would take another girl's friend away from her.

I haven't taken him away, because I haven't seen or heard of him since.

THE PODGY

A podgy abdomen is perhaps the most frequent consequence of too much correct. Hence if there be any affliction of the credulous sex who is afflicted, the exercises described in this article may have some interest.

1. Lie supine on the floor, with the feet under a heavy chair or other support. Place the hands on the hips. Slowly draw yourself up to the sitting posture, expire (breathe out) slowly. Then slowly let yourself down to the first position, and inspire (breathe in) slowly and repeat. Do this only twice, each night and morning, the first week; three times each night and morning the second week; and on until you can do it from five to twelve times at a session without undue fatigue or soreness of the muscles afterward.

2. Stand erect with the feet firmly apart and the arms and legs straight. At the same time swing the arms and body forward and downward until the fingers touch the floor in front of your feet, whether you have to bend the knees or not. Now draw in a deep breath and at the same time swing upward to the first position and as far backward as possible. Repeat twice each night and morning the first week, three times the second week, and so on until you can do it twenty times at a session. The smoothness, regularity and elasticity of the abdominal muscles may be cultivated in harmony with these movements.

3. Stand erect with the hands resting on the hips. Expire forcibly through the open mouth and squat down on the heels at the same time. Immediately clasp the mouth in inspire deeply through the nose. Repeat not over five times each night and morning the first week, and increase gradually in the course of the first six weeks, until you can do it twenty-five times at a session.

4. Lean out the wrinkles and loosen the kinks and stir up the stagnant splanchnic pool in the abdomen (where about half the entire mass of blood may accumulate in persons with poor circulation) by rolling half a dozen somersaults.

Do not expect any tangible results from these exercises until you have

Tales of the Friendly Forest

When Billy Bunny and Uncle Lucky reached the bridge that led across Watercress river to Bunburybridge, they stopped the Luckymobile to pay the tollman, who was an old gray-haired water rat.

"How many thrust stamps will you take?" asked Uncle Lucky. "Come into my little house," said the water rat tollman, and he took the little bunnies inside and then he pulled out an old stocking just crammed full of pennies. And after they all sat down and counted those pennies and when they were through they found there were 9,000 and maybe a dozen or so left over.

"I'll take 9,000 cents worth of stamps," said the water rat. And, oh, dear me. By the time they had counted out the stamps it was late in the afternoon.

"Gracious meebus!" exclaimed Uncle Lucky. "How time flies. We must hurry on to Bunburybridge! And then he turned on full speed and went across the bridge like a streak of lightning and pretty soon he stopped in front of the store, where Mr. Jack Hare sold groceries to everybody in town, for there was no other grocery store in Bunburybridge.

"Now, Hare Jack Hare," said Uncle Lucky, after he had tied up the Luckymobile to the hitching rail that stood in front of the store, you must get everyone who buys a pound of tea or ginger snaps to buy a stamp. For we must all do our part to help Uncle Sam and Aunt Columbia.

"Give me all you've got left," said Mr. Jack Hare, and any one who won't buy a stamp won't get an egg or a lump of sugar," and he winked at Uncle Lucky and handed him a lettuce leaf tobacco cigar with a beautiful gold band around it.

And after they had filled up an empty sugar barrel with the stamps that were left in the Luckymobile the two little bunnies drove away and started for home. But they took a different road, for the old gentleman rabbit wished to make a call on the Tailor Bird.

DISCOVERIES.
String Bag for Handkerchiefs.
Laces, etc., to be used in electric washer or when sending clothes to wet wash. Make a bag 2x13 inches (this will be plenty large enough for a handkerchiefs) of simple one-half inch squares mesh crocheted, using old pieces of white twine. Lace two sides of openings at top with coarse lace so that bag will lie flat. This will prevent the handkerchiefs from becoming lost or sucked down in the machine, and the open mesh at the bottom will pass through to clean them.

To Clean Aluminum.—A package of steel wool, lasting a long time, is the best thing for aluminum and scouring pots and pans.

If the inside of coffee pots were properly scoured (without soap or other cleanser than the steel wool) there would be fewer complaints of spots. Using long strokes that follow each other, it will polish as well as cleanse.

Flowered Apron.—An old cloth dinner apron for small children sown with tapes at waistline and neck. They can be used plain or with flowers painted on them. The children's paint box can be used, the flowers, unless you are an artist, cut from a seed catalogue and laid on the apron edge and outlined before painting. A centerpiece of old lace decorated in this way is also useful.

Keeps Lettuce Crisp.—If you wash lettuce, then wrap it loosely in waxed paper and place it in a can placed in a covered dish (granite pan will do). It will keep fresh and crisp for several days.

White Spots Caused by heat, frequently found on dining room walls, may be removed by applying the following in the order named: Kerosene, alcohol and sweet or linsed oil. Use a different cloth for each of them. The linsed oil should be rubbed in till the spot disappears.

THE TABLE.
Loaf Sponge Cake—Six eggs, two cups sugar, one cup boiling water, two and three-quarters cups flour, one-quarter cup cornstarch, one teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon lemon extract.

Beat the yolks of the eggs very lightly, beating in gradually the sugar. Add the beaten whites of the eggs and boiling water. Beat in very lightly the flour, cornstarch and baking powder well stirred together. Bake in a loaf pan in a moderate oven.

Apple and Celery Salad.—Two cups apples (peeled and cut into half-inch cubes), one tablespoon lemon juice, one and one-half cups tender celery (cut in one-fourth inch slices). French dressing; mix the apple and lemon juice to keep the apple from discoloring, then mix the apple and celery with French dressing. Use lemon juice instead of vinegar and allow for the lemon juice poured over apple when cut. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Orange Marmalade.—Three thin-skinned oranges, one cup sugar, two tablespoons lemon juice. Wash the oranges, cut off the ends, remove the pulp with a teaspoon. Cut the rind in quarters, then remove all fiber; put the rind in two quarts of cold water for 24 hours and boil until tender. Drain, press out all water; shred very fine, add to the pulp; add the sugar and boil slowly one hour. You can put the rind through a chopper and add the lemon juice to the rind.

den, just like that, a big turkey gobbler ran out of a burryard and stood right in the middle of the walk, and of course, the lucky had to stop, because he didn't want to run over him, you know.

"What's the matter?" asked Billy Bunny.

"You're going too fast," said the Turkey Gobbler, and his face got dreadfully red and angry looking.

"Turkey wings angry looking," explained the old gentleman rabbit. "You've eaten too many chestnuts! Get out of the way or I'll throw a gas bomb at you!" And then Uncle Lucky held up a red toy balloon. And when that Turkey Gobbler saw it he thought it really was a gas bomb and her away as fast as he could to get his gas mask, and when he came back the little rabbits were out of sight. And in the next story I'll tell you what happened at the Tailor Bird's shop.

SIDE TALKS

—BY—
RUTH CAMERON

THE FOUNDATION OF FRIENDSHIP.
I overheard two young people in a trolley car talking about an engagement one of them wanted to break.

Said the one who wanted to get out of the engagement, "I'll tell her that I've got to work that night."

Said the other girl, "Won't she think its queer you have to stay Wednesday night; you know its usually Friday nights."

"Oh, no," said the other, "she doesn't know about that. It will be perfectly all right."

Her Lie Would Pass Muster So It Was Perfectly All Right.
I couldn't help smiling a bit wryly at that last phrase. She felt sure that her lie would pass muster, and therefore everything was "perfectly all right."

Do you know, I think that is an astonishing easy state of mind to slip into, that of considering that a plausible lie is just as good as the truth.

These girls wouldn't tell a lie that wasn't well put together, they would drop to pieces and hurt someone's feelings (and on the rebound hurt their own), but what, they seem by their attitude to ask, is wrong with a perfectly good lie?

I Would Know Better Today.
Somehow I was reminded, by that conversation, of a little girl I once took care of. She wanted to keep a couple of green apples she was playing with, during her nap. Like a fool, I let her. When I came in to take her up from the nap, there were several bites out of each apple.

"Oh, Elizabeth," I said reproachfully, "you promised."

"I didn't touch them," she assured me, "the pink and white and blue blackbirds flew in the window while I was asleep and ate them up."

After due persuasion, she finally confessed the truth. "But," she added, very much aggrieved, "I thought they think the pink and white and blue blackbirds flew in the window and ate them up."

In other words, she thought it a perfectly plausible lie, now many lies see why it wasn't just as good as the truth.

It's Not Only Five Year Olds Who Think That.
But when one sees how many people who are nearer five times than five, think the same, one can hardly blame her.

Sometimes I am afraid truthfulness is by way of being an old-fashioned virtue. We have so much to say about the duties of tact and kindness and graciousness that we sometimes forget that the foundation of all true friendship and all right relations between human beings, is truth.

I have certain friends who tell me the truth—not ungraciously and occasionally—but whenever I ask them anything. And though there are times when I turn from them to the sort of friend who will give you approval or exculpation whenever you ask for it, no matter how many lies they have to tell, I always turn back again. There is a sense of abiding peace in the possession of a friend who tells the truth. No one who wants true friends can afford to lie.

Optimistic Thought.
To expose an ambassador to abuse is only necessary to send him away without an answer.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE
THE CLEVERNESS OF IT ALL.
"Ah, that diamond isn't real," he sneered, looking at a stone the size of an onion—at least thirteen karats. "It is, too!" she defended, anxious that he shouldn't think her cheap.

"Let me see it," he said. "I don't believe it is real."

"No, I don't take it off my neck. I promised my dying third cousin's sister that I would keep it on forever," she cried, determinedly.

"Avert the stars, pretty tonight? Look up at that one!"

"No, I don't like to look up at stars; they make me dizzy," she remonstrated.

"Anyhow, that diamond on your neck doesn't look real. Take it off and prove—"

"No! I made a promise and I'm going to keep it!"

"Geel! Look at that man in back of you beating up the other man!"

"Ugh! No! I don't want to see it. I hate violence of any—"

"Neither by hook or crook could he get her to turn around."

She simply wouldn't turn around. Nothing could induce her. She absolutely refused to budge.

"Her to turn around."

"Look at that pretty girl!" he exclaimed, admiringly, pointing to an old woman behind her—just to get her to turn around.

She did.

With a flendish yell of rage, he snatched the necklace and ran away with it.

"It isn't real," he laughed, and sed from sight.

whined at the hut door, but would not come in. Fatou Anni called on Allah, left her patient and went out to see what was the matter with the dog. At the door, in the shade of a palm, stood two Bedouins.

It was rare for the caravan to pass by Beni Medinet. The old woman's superstition foresaw danger in this visit. Her veil before her face, her gnarled old fingers held the fan with which she had been fanning Sabron. She went out to the strangers. Down by the well a group of girls in garments of blue and yellow, with earthen bottles on their heads, stood staring at Beni Medinet's unusual visitors.

"Peace be with you, Fatou Anni," said the older of the Bedouins. "Are you a cousin or a brother that you know my name?" asked the ancient woman.

"Everyone knows the name of the oldest woman in the Sahara," said Hammet Abou, "and the victorious are always brothers."

"What do you want with me?" she asked, thinking of the helplessness of the village.

PETEY DINK—THIS GOAT FAD PUTS PETEY UP IN THE AIR.

Hammet Abou pointed to the hut. "You have a white captive in there. Is he alive?"

"What is that to you, son of a dog?" "The mother of many sons is wise," said Hammet Abou portentously, "but she does not know that this man carries the Evil Eye. His dog carries the Evil Eye for his enemies. Your people have gone to battle. Unless this man is cast out from your village, your young men, your grandsons and your sons will be destroyed."

The old woman regarded him calmly. "I do not fear it," she said tranquilly. "We have had corn and oil in plenty. He is sacred."

For the first time she looked at his companion, tall and slender and evidently younger.

"You favor the coward Franks," she said in a high voice. "You have come to fall upon us in our desolation."

She was about to raise the peculiar wail which would have summoned to her all the women of the village. The dogs of the place had already begun to show their noses, and the villagers were drawing near the people under the palms. Now the young man began to speak swiftly in a language that she did not understand, addressing his comrade. The language was so curious that the woman, with the cry arrested on her lips, stared at him. Pointing to his companion, Hammet Abou said:

"Fatou Anni, this great lord kisses your hand. He says that he wishes he could speak your beautiful language. He does not come from the enemy; he does not come from the French. He comes from two women of his people by whom the captive is beloved. He says that you are the mother of sons and grandsons, and that you will deliver this man up into our hands in peace."

The narrow fetid streets were beginning to fill with the figures of women, their beautifully colored robes fluttering in the light, and there were curious eager children who came running, naked save for the bangles upon their arms and ankles.

Pointing to the old sage, Hammet Abou said to the old sage:

"See, you are only women here, Fatou Anni. Your men are twenty miles farther south. We have a caravan of fifty men all armed, Fatou Anni. They camp just there, at the edge of the oasis. They are waiting. We come in peace, old woman: we come to take away the Evil Eye from your door; but if you anger us and rave against us, the dogs and women of your town will fall upon you and destroy every breast among you."

She began to beat her palms together, murmuring:

"Allah! Allah!" "Hush," said the Bedouin fiercely, "take us to the captive, Fatou Anni."

Fatou Anni did not stir. She pulled aside the veil from her withered face, so that her great eyes looked out at the two men. She saw her predicament, but she was a subtle Oriental. Victory had been in her camp and in her village; her sons and grandsons had never been vanquished. Perhaps the dying man in the hut would bring the Evil Eye. He was dying, anyway—he would not live twenty-four hours. She knew this, for her ninety years of life had seen many eyes close on the oasis under the hard blue skies.

To the taller of the two Bedouins she said in Arabic:

"Fatou Anni is nearly one hundred years old. She has borne twenty children, she has had fifty grandchildren; she has seen many wives, many brides and many mothers. She does not believe the sick man has the Evil Eye. She is not afraid of your fifty armed men. Fatou Anni is not afraid. Allah is great. She will not give up the Frenchman because of fear; nor will she give him up to any man. She gives him to the women of his people."

CHAPTER XXII.

Into the Desert.

A week after the caravan of the Duc de Tremont left Algiers, Julia Redmond came unexpectedly to the villa of Madame de la Maine at an early morning hour. Madame de la Maine saw her standing on the threshold of her bedroom door.

"Chere Madame," Julia said, "I am leaving today with a dragoman and twenty servants to go into the desert. Madame de la Maine was still in bed. At nine o'clock she read her papers and her correspondence.

"Into the desert—alone!" Julia, with her cravache in her gloved hands, smiled sweetly though she was very pale. "I had not thought of going alone, Madame," she replied with charming assurance, "I knew you would go with me."

On a chair by her bed was a wrapper of blue silk and lace. The comtesse sprang up and then thrust her feet into her slippers and stared at Julia.

"What are you going to do in the desert?" "Watch!"

"Yes, yes!" nodded Madame de la Maine. "And your aunt?" "Deep in a bazaar for the hospital," smiled Miss Redmond.

Madame de la Maine regarded her slender friend with admiration and envy. "Why hadn't I thought of it?" She rang for her maid.

"Because your great-grandfather was not a pioneer!" Miss Redmond answered.

The sun which, all day long, held the desert in its burning embrace, went westward in its own brilliant caravan.

"The desert blossoms like a rose, Therese." "Like a rose?" questioned Madame de la Maine.

She was sitting in the door of her tent; her white dress and her white hat gleamed like a touch of snow upon the desert's face. Julia Redmond, on a rug at her feet, and in her khaki riding-habit the color of the sand, blended with the desert as though part of it. She sat up as she spoke.

"How divine! See!" She pointed to the stretches of the Sahara before her. On every side they spread away as far as the eye could reach, suave, mellow, black, undulating finally to small hillocks with corrugated sides, as a group of little sandhills rose softly out of the sealike plain. "Look, Therese!"

Slowly, from ochre and gold the color changed; a faint wavelike blush crept over the sands, which reddened, paled, faded, warmed again, took depth and grew intense like flame.

"The heart of a rose! N'est-ce pas, Therese?"

"I understand now what you mean," said Madame. The comtesse was not a dreamer. Parisian to the tips of her fingers, elegant, fine, she had lived a conventional life. Therese had been taught to conceal her emotions. She had been taught that her feelings matter very little to any one but ourselves. She had been taught to go lightly, to avoid serious things. Her great-grandmother had gone lightly to the scaffold, exquisitely courteous till the last.

"I ask your pardon if I jostled you in the tumbrel," the old comtesse had said to her companion on the way to the guillotine. "The springs of the cart are poor"—and she went up smiling.

In the companionship of the American girl, Therese de la Maine had thrown off restraint. If the Marquise d'Esclagnac had felt Julia's influence, Therese de la Maine, being near her own age, echoed Julia's very feeling.

Except for their dragoman and their servants, the two women were alone in the desert.

Smiling at Julia, Madame de la Maine said: "I haven't been so far from the Rue de la Paix in my life."

"How can you speak of the Rue de la Paix, Therese?" "Only to show you how completely I have left it behind."

Julia's eyes were fixed upon the limitless sands, a sea where a faint line lost itself in the red west and the horizon shut from her sight everything that she believed to be her life.

"This is the seventh day, Therese!" "Already you are as brown as an Arab, Julia!"

"You as well, ma chere amie!" "Robert does not like dark women," said the Comtesse de la Maine, and rubbed her cheek. "I must wear two veils."

DINNER STORIES

A sailor who was being reprimanded by an officer started to defend himself.

"But I thought, sir—" "You are not supposed to think!" "About a week later the same officer sent this man ashore to get him some cigar papers, and, as he did not have any change, he gave him a $20 bill.

The man came staggering back with a case on his shoulder.

"What have you got there?" asked the officer.

"Cigar papers," came the reply. "You didn't say how many, sir. You gave me the bill and said 'Get me some cigar papers.'"

"What do you think I want with $20 worth of cigar papers?" "I am not supposed to think, sir," he replied.

"Your aristocratic American millionaire will often make a mess of things. I don't know what your aristocratic millionaires always keeping her head, makes a good match."

The speaker was Mrs. Montessori, the Italian educator. She continued: "On the way thither on the boat there was a beautiful American belle to whom a young magazine writer from the west paid assiduous court. But on account of the low rates of the magazines, was as poor as a church mouse, and so the belle would not consider him seriously."

As they leaned side by side over the rail one afternoon the heiress, looking out over the rolling blue waters, sighed and said:

"I love the sea." "The impoverished and embittered magazine writer retorted with a sneer, 'don't see why. It hasn't got any money.'"

Rapid Spread of Tobacco Habit.

The spread of the tobacco habit throughout the world has been more general than the spread of the coffee, tea and sugar habits. It may be that the people of the far East smoked a tobacco thousands of years ago, but Europe, and probably all the rest of the world, was introduced to tobacco after the discovery of America. The use of tobacco in its various forms was universal among the natives of America from Hudson bay to Cape Horn at the time of the coming of the first Europeans. It was on the first voyage of Columbus that two of his sailors reported that they had seen natives of the new-found world with fire-brands in their mouths and smoke issuing from their lips.

One Cause of Broken Wills.

Curiously enough, the great number of wills which are overthrown are those drawn up by lawyers. This is not necessarily a reflection upon men of the law, but because these experts are called in to devise improbable documents in as nearly legal form as possible. The lawyer has no option but to try to put these bequests in a form which will stand the tests of the courts. It is said that few wills written by the testator himself are overthrown and for the reason that he usually devises his property in a sensible manner.

OPTIMISM OF CHURCH FORCEFULLY SOUNDED BY REV. F. F. LEWIS

"What's the matter with the church, and is it going or coming?" was the question asked by Rev. F. F. Lewis in a vigorous address given at the Carville Methodist church yesterday morning. "Is there a future for the church and is it needed?" was another question propounded by him. He answered both these questions in a forceful way. In a prelude to the subject, he defined the difference between a pessimist and an optimist.

"Many optimists," he said, "were just idiots, whooping it up, and giving way to rejoicing, while the pessimists were crouching on the lost condition of the world, and could see no remedy for it." He thought the ideal way was to recognize facts but proffer a remedy for the existing evils.

Deplores Movie Programs.
In making a diagnosis of present day events, the speaker felt that in looking over the announcements of the moving picture programs there was a capitalization of the unspooked legend of war, was greatly to be deplored.

He felt that the church was losing members, and among which he mentioned the depletion of the ministry, the worldliness of the churches, and the lack of proper vision of the task to be accomplished.

Ministers on Other Jobs.
In regard to the force at work depicting the ministry, he said that Methodist preachers seemed to be doing everything except tending to their job. "All modern reforms," he showed, "were effected with preachers, and there was an appalling list of things which they had gone into, aside from their regular work."

"All over the country," he pointed out, "churches were being left to themselves, and preachers had dropped their jobs to look after the morals of the soldiers. He said he had himself been asked to become a chaplain at Camp Grant and had investigated the conditions of the camp. He was satisfied that there were no religious leaders in the camp and were needed, and that some of them were doing duty in canteen work and acting as head of the officers' mess, when civilians might be doing those tasks just as well. He estimated that there were about 150 men in the capacity of M. C. A. men, chaplains and religious leaders at the camp, and that the church was being invaded by the worldliness which seemed to be invading it.

He noted also the many who had gone into M. C. A. work, and said that while all these movements were good, yet the church was falling down for lack of ministers. Another cause which he thought was responsible for the falling off of the church, was the worldliness which seemed to be invading it.

Amusement Standards Lowered.
He said "the standard of the church on the amusement question was being lowered, and that the past conferences had been mainly taken up with the discussion of the question as to whether or not the church should dance or not." He showed that the high mark in the membership of the Epworth league, came when the pledge for membership was made, and that when the church began to side-step and to relax, they found their young people slipping away from them. He felt that the church must keep up its fight against the world and the devil, to be successful."

The last cause to which he ascribed the failure of the church was that it had no purposeful effort in doing and had seemed to be just turning wheels." Of the one hundred and ten millions of the United States population, only forty million belonged to any religious denomination.

He emphasized the thought that all the churches had recognized this lack, and were bestirring themselves, each in their own way. The Methodist church, he said, included the kindling of millions of altar fires, the winning of 50,000 young people to Christ, 7500 new ministers ordained, the securing and consecration of a tenth of the incomes of the members of the church to the work of "bringing in the kingdom."

A special treat was afforded the audience by a violin solo being played as an offertory by Glen Hallie. The chorus choir of women voices directed by Miss Clara Shawyan sang "Holy, Holy, Holy," and the choir of the church in the centenary campaign made a few brief remarks along that line at the morning service. C. E. Beattie, more recently the same service during the evening program. E. P. Hocking spoke on the subject to the members of the Sunday school.

Evansville News

Evansville, March 3.—A large audience gathered in the Congregational church last evening which taxed the seating capacity of that church. It was a union meeting of all the churches. The speaker of the evening was Rev. Arnold Bennett Hall of the University of Wisconsin. He explained and spoke on "The League of Nations" in a very lucid address in favor of the league. At the conclusion of his address he asked the audience to ask questions, and in answering, a still better idea of this vital proposition that is holding the attention of the world was given.

The music given at this meeting was splendid with Miss Lou Howland at the piano, Miss Robert Hartley at the organ, Miss Maude Combs and Mr. Lindsay, violinist, while Robert Hartley led the large choir. Mr. Lindsay and Miss Combs played a violin duet, and Mr. Lindsay's violin solo was of especial merit.

Lyle Crawford.
Lyle Crawford, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Crawford, died at his home south of town, Friday evening. Death was due to a complication of diseases. The funeral was held at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Personals.
Miss Maude Pierce spent the week-end with her parents in Stoughton. Leighton and E. E. Carson went to Jansville Friday for a visit with relatives.

Mrs. Mary Brown, who has been very ill for several weeks, is now convalescing.

The Misses Ethel Fisher, Beth Gilow, Ada McCoy and Grace Boyle were Belmont visitors Friday and Saturday. They attended the basketball game between Evansville and Belmont.

Miss Zora Howard, Madison, spent Sunday with her father, C. C. Howard.

Martin Colony accompanied by a class mate, Mr. Jordan of the University, spent the week end at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitten moved into the semi-detached building, Saturday. Mr. J. Conroy, Jansville, spent Sunday at the Burr Tolles home on West Liberty street.

Ring.—Lost, an expensive finger ring with large cameo setting, lost near the telephone office. Finder return to Miss Helen Boston, Chief Operator, Harvard.

ALASKAN LECTURER TELLS OF MISSIONS

An eminent author, traveler, Dr. S. Hall Young, was in the city yesterday and gave a lecture before a large audience at the Federated church last evening. Going into Alaska as he did in 1875 when there were but few white people in the country, he has participated in all the hardships, has traveled thousands of miles, and has seen Alaska grow from a despoiled frozen patch of land considered of no value to the United States into a valued territory which has well been called the "Storehouse of the United States."

Dr. Young started a mission at Ft. Wrangle and built the first Protestant church in the territory, having about 200 whites and 1,000 natives included among his parishioners. He had very affectionate remembrances of John Muir, who cruised with him, and equipped with him many seasons. Together they discovered and named the Muir glacier, and charted the region about it.

He described the enlarged resources of the country, and said that the first law passed by the territorial legislature meeting at Juneau, granted suffrage to women. Two years ago, he said they passed laws making the territory dry.

He had interesting reminiscences of the stampede into the Klondike in several canoes, and of the gold which he participated in. He mentioned a picture in which he mentioned also being conversant with the incidents noted by Rex Beach in his story "The Spoilers."

A trio consisting of Miss McCullough, and Prof. Taylor and A. Schoof sang a vocal selection. Rev. J. A. McIlross presided at the meeting.

Many views taken by Dr. Young helped to make more real the scenes described by him, and he also recited two poems by Robert Service, which he illustrated with these northern pictures. He is now interested in arousing the people of the United States to settle, and trying to impress upon them the importance of making adequate preparation to care for the newcomers, spiritually.

CORPORAL BLEASDALE AWARDED HIGH HONOR

Corporal Hector K. Bleasdale of Headquarters Company 20th Infantry, son of J. R. Bleasdale, Route 6, Jansville, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism under fire.

Corporal Bleasdale, one of the youngest members of the United States army, was in the city last week on a furlough from the army hospital at Fort Sheridan. He was severely wounded during the battle of Chateau Thierry and received 15 splinters of shrapnel in his body.

Corporal Bleasdale is a brother of Lieut. Victor Bleasdale of the marines who was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for bravery during the fighting at Belleau Wood.

Corporal Bleasdale enlisted in the regular army the day after war was declared and although just out of high school he soon developed into a first class soldier. He went overseas with the first contingent of American soldiers and for months battled the Germans before he was wounded. The citation awarded Corporal Bleasdale the D. S. C. reads as follows: "For extraordinary heroism in action near Mezy, France, July 15, 1918. Corp. Bleasdale remained with his gun during a heavy bombardment, until his gunpit was blown in and then removed his weapon to another position and continued the fire, under heavy machine gun fire. Later in the same action, he volunteered and went to reconnoiter a small woods, believed to be occupied by enemy troops. There he killed several Germans single-handed, and returned to the American lines with an American soldier."

Corporal Bleasdale was also cited by both the French and English for bravery.

COMPANY M SERGEANT HOME FROM OVERSEAS

Sergeant Elmer Johnson of Company M, 128th Infantry, who was severely wounded at Jansville, is spending a few days in the city, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. King, 771 Milwaukee avenue.

Sergeant Johnson lives in Brooklyn and enlisted in Company M a few days after war was declared. He soon won a non-commissioned berth and when the company was split up in France, Sergeant Johnson remained with Company M.

Shortly before the battle of Jansville, Capt. Caldwell was transferred to a regular army unit and Capt. Rowells was placed in command of Company M. When the order came to go over the top near Jansville, Sergeant Johnson was close to Captain Rowells and a few minutes after the captain was killed, Sergeant Johnson fell severely wounded. He was cared for by first Sergeant, Wilbur Ryan, who also was wounded later in the battle.

"I fell at Jansville," Sergeant Johnson said, "but I was proud to fall for such a glorious cause. Other Jansville boys of the company sure put up a wonderful fight."

Not Too Close.
Marjorie and her mother went shopping. In a store the proprietor's dog, who likes children, came over and stood beside her. She told him to get away, but he only moved closer. The clerk asked her if she didn't like dogs, and she said, "I like dogs all right, but I like 'em 'cross the street."

Well Trained.
"Does Bessie make George a good wife?"
"No, but she has made him an awfully good husband."

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Government contentions may seem to be doing set-up exercises and formation drills in the near future if the plans of the United States training corps for women are carried out. Permission has been asked of the war department for the use of part of the cantonments when they are released from military service, as training camps for women. The women will be instructed in set-up exercises and semi-military drill adapted to women and children. When the women finish the course they will go into industrial centers and public schools and teach this form of physical culture. The corps has also asked for another part of each cantonment to be used as a recreation camp where physicians can send women and children who do not need medicine as much as they need conditioning.

The women's corps which is taking up this plan is an organization established by women war workers in Washington. It has now been made a permanent organization with the purpose of making women physically fit to take their place in the business, industry and general work of the nation.

Admiral Cary T. Grayson is medical director of the corps which numbers about 3,500 women. Miss Emma Cocroft of Chicago, an organizer, is a member of the board of directors. Other members of the board are Surgeon General Blue, Gen. Enoch Crowder, Julius Kahn, Mrs. Robert Lansing, wife of the secretary of state, Mrs. Franklin K. Lane, wife of the secretary of the interior, Miss Mabel T. Boardman of the American Red Cross, and Miss Gertrude Long, magazine editor.

FOOTVILLE

The following letter was received from Paul E. Mattice, Requeil, France, Feb. 2, 1919.

Dear Mother and Father:
This sure is a lonesome life, nothing to do but to read, write or walk during one's spare time. If this doesn't end soon, I am certainly going to develop into the biggest crab that ever existed. Two of the officers here certainly don't keep things any as I think they were brought up in a barn. Certainly they don't act like civilized beings. One of them decided to take a bath in the dining room this morning. Thus I found him and certainly told him a few things. He didn't take the bath as he had planned to do.

This afternoon we had memorial services for Hon. Teddy Roosevelt. Sure this seemed good to go to church again and hear something besides war. "For the past few days we have been having some real cold weather, nothing like we have at home, but cold for France."

We still like our little town and the people are very nice to us. Purchased a chicken for today's dinner—only cost 26 francs equal to about $3.50 and eggs are $1.46 per dozen. Thus because we don't have many chickens and eggs.

The latest rumor is that we are to be in President Wilson's convey when he sails for America, about the last of Feb. I sincerely hope so as I am getting a—d tired of this life. At the present time I am still courting the French. It sure is a great affliction, about like having the hives. But why worry, it kind of takes my mind off of things in general.

Best wishes to all, with love, Paul.

We'll Give You 20c

In Aluminum Mold values, for every end label you send us this week from a package of Jiffy-Jell. The end label must be the one which mentions the flavor. See picture. The flavor must be either Loganberry, Pineapple, Lime or Mint. Labels on our other flavors count for 10 cents each, but the four flavors mentioned count for 20 cents each. Think of that. Each Jiffy-Jell package costs 12½ cents. Yet the end label is worth 20 cents this week toward these molds.

Address Jiffy-Jell, Waukesha, Wis.

We Pay Women

Who Will Try Our Finest Jiffy-Jell Flavors

There are four flavors in Jiffy-Jell which are particularly delightful. Two are dessert flavors—Loganberry and Pineapple. One is Lime-Fruit flavor, for salads. One is Mint, for garnish jell.

This remarkable offer is made, for one week only, to induce every home to try them. We are making each 12½-cent package worth 20 cents on our pure aluminum molds.

Fruit Essences Sealed in Glass

Jiffy-Jell fruit flavors are made from the fruit itself. They are essences condensed from fruit juices. They come sealed in glass vials—a bottle in each package—so they keep their fresh-fruit taste.

The flavors are rich and abundant. We use half a pineapple to make the flavor for one Jiffy-Jell dessert. We use 65 big Loganberries to flavor another. So Jiffy-Jell desserts are real-fruit dainties. They have all the delights, all the healthfulness of fruits.

That is where Jiffy-Jell differs so vastly from the old-style gelatine dainties.

12½c Per Dinner

Jiffy-Jell comes ready-sweetened, in proper color and acidulated. You simply add boiling water, then the flavor from the vial, and let cool. One package serves six people in mold form, or 12 if you whip the jell—all for 12½ cents. Think of that for a rich, fruity dessert—less than a fruitless pudding costs. And the ten flavors give you variety.

Also Salads

Lime-fruit flavor makes tart, green salad jell. Serve with your salads or mix the salads in before cooling. Or mix in meat scraps and make a delicious meat loaf.

Mint flavor makes a garnish jell, rich in fresh-mint flavor. Serve with roast lamb or cold meats.

You Need Them

You need these real-fruit dainties at this season. Everybody needs fruit daily. Here you get it in the finest form at very little cost. Learn what it means to you.

Accept the offers we make below. It will introduce our finest flavors to you. After that, you will serve Jiffy-Jell in some form at least three times weekly. And you will know a new delight.

10 Flavors in Glass Vials

A Bottle in Each Package Loganberry Pineapple Mint Lime Strawberry Raspberry Cherry Orange Lemon Also Coffee Flavor 2 Packages for 25 Cents

This Week's Mold Offers

The end labels shown at top are accepted at 20c each on these molds, if they bear the name Loganberry, Pineapple, Lime or Mint. Labels from other flavors count for 10c each.

All molds are pure aluminum.

Individual Dessert Molds as pictured are valued at 10c each. They come in assorted styles. Six of them will serve a full package of Jiffy-Jell. Send labels for as many as you want.

Vegetable Salad Mold—Style D—is valued at 50c. It holds a six-portion salad—one pint—made with Lime Jiffy-Jell and vegetables mixed in. The six indentations mark our six individual servings.

Fruit Salad Mold—Style E—holds a one-pint dessert made with one package of Jiffy-Jell. The value is 50c.

Pint Dessert Mold—Style B—is heart shaped, like Style 5. It serves a full package of Jiffy-Jell. Value 50c.

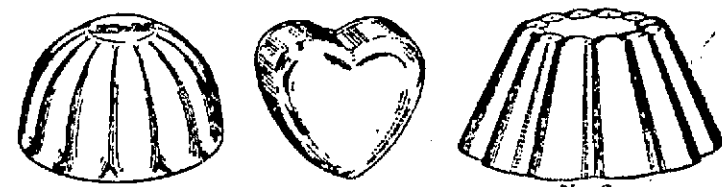

Pint Dessert Mold—Style C—is fluted, like Style 6 at top. It serves a full package. Value, 50c.

State in the coupon the molds you want. Send labels as per our offer to cover the value as stated. For instance, three labels worth 20c each on this offer will bring six Individual Dessert Molds. But it takes six labels worth 10c each.

You can send labels to pay for all the molds you want. If your grocer is out of the flavors you want, you can send the labels next week. If you prefer not to send labels, send grocer's sales slip, showing amount of your Jiffy-Jell purchase and the flavors.
